Chapter 1 by The Coffee Freak

A stranger in a hoodie walks over to you and hands you a large untitled book. As you read you realize that it's your life story. Before you can say anything he's gone. You walk home thoughts filling your head. Who was he, What did he want, Why was he doing this? You wanted answers and you wanted them badly. You opened your front door to find your family gone, vanished without a single trace of their existence. You run up the stairs calling for your parents.

"Mom? Dad?" You call. But nothing. You realize your bedroom door is open, unusual since you always keep it locked. You hesitantly walk in and see the hooded stranger.

"Who are you? Why are you in my house? Where is my family?" You cry..

"Let's just say I'm the monster under your bed. Your door was unlocked, and as for your family, well... they're gone."

"Gone? What do you mean their gone?!" You scream at him.

"Why don't I tell you down where I came from. It's way too bright up here." He mutters.

"Where is where you came from?"

"Hell"

And with that he grabs your hand and pulls you down to the underworld.

You find yourself in a street, the hooded stranger is standing next to you.

"How did we get here? Is it Hell?"

"Follow me!" The hooded stranger says.

You don't follow him, you're too preoccupied. You can't stop staring at a group of people, queuing in front of a large metal door. All wearing the same purple hoodie. Suddenly, the stranger is right in your face.

"I said follow me!" He exclaims.

You follow him. You realized that you haven't seen a soul in an hour.

"Where is everyone?" You ask. The dark mysterious stranger doesn't reply.

You ask him where you are going, but he remains silent.

He then walks away. Leaving no trace of his existence except in your mind.

Chapter 3 by :3 Yuri

You look up at what assumes to be the sky. It's all red and dark. You keep walking with your head to the sky an you bump into the hooded man. You look down and he turns around "What was that" and you say "sorry". The big door opens and you see fire in the sky. You are completely scared your frightened you want you family back. The Guy walks forward and you follow.

Chapter 4 by ABrokenDream

You continue on, only to trip over a small rock and fall. The hooded man turns around and grabs you by the neck. "You make one more mistake," he growls, "and you're going in there." He points to a bubbling pool of lava, hungry for its next victim.

You gulp, get up, and dust yourself off. You cough, but quickly stop, as you're afraid coughing counts as "a mistake." A giant throne is nearby (by giant I mean like a thousand stories high) with a large, hooded figure sitting on it. You shrink back, but are suddenly grabbed by a mysterious black hand. It's not attached to anything, but it looks like the figure sitting on the throne is causing it to appear.

"Welcome to Hell," he says, then drops you from about 100 feet. You scream and try to scramble away, but chains quickly wrap around your ankles, neck, waist, and wrists, preventing you from any movement.

"Prepare for a night of torture," he laughs, grinning a psychopathic smile. "You're gonna be here a long time."
